સીટીજ ૨૦૧૨
Kala gyan Samanvay

1st – 3rd October, 2012

“Passion rebuilds the world for the YOUTH. It makes all things ALIVE and SIGNIFICANT!” – quoted by Ralph Waldo Emerson was correctly experienced at the largest festival of youth, energy, dreams, passion, achievements and positivity- “XITIJ ’12 “ – the 2nd youth festival of Gujarat Technological University.

Sarvajanik College of engineering and Technology, Surat was honored to host XITIJ ’12 during 1st -3rd October 2012, for south zone- successively second time! The enthusiastic participation, full of energy yet disciplined participants and timely, well organized execution of all events made Xitij ’12 a huge success at south zone.

As each zone under GTU associates a theme with youth festival, we had incorporated- “social and professional integration “ as our theme. To implement our theme we had tried spreading awareness through posters as well as we had organized a panel discussion to provide social and professional integration. Highly Qualified and highly experienced industry persons were invited at panel discussion, who shared their point of view regarding – where actually we need to bridge the gap between education and actual profession and how professional and social integration can be beneficial to society. Students had raised any queries regarding the industry skill requirements and the existing education pattern – incompatibility, which had been excellently answered by appropriate professionals.

We at Sarvajanik College of Engineering and Technology, being the host institute took proper care of encrypting the college names before hand with college code and informed the same to team managers of all participating colleges at the time of registration itself. Because of over qualified, skilled and professional juries in each category and event, we had not received a single query against the results. Although as per norms we had, well in advance formed a committee to sort out if any issue against jury’s judgment arises.

To provide youth a platform to showcase their hidden skills and talent, Ksitij’12 had been spanned into five major categories. 1) Music 2) Literature 3) Fine Arts 4) Theater 5) Dance. Each category itself contained multiple opportunities as multiple events, which were designed focusing on AIU[all India Universities] rules in consideration to provide students global competitive platform. The Whole format of Xitij [- Gujarat Technological university’s youth Festival] is designed such that the students are first competing at zone level [Ahmedabad, Gandhinagar, Vallabh Vidhyanagar, Rajkot and Surat are five Zones under GTU]. Those who qualify and win at zone level are representing their zone at inter-zonal youth festival and the inter-zonal winners shall represent Gujarat Technological university for inter- university fest. The successive competition not only sharpens the talent of competitors but also implants qualities like team spirit, self- confidence, pressure resistivity.

Being an integral part of Gujarat Technological university, We, at south zone also whole heartedly celebrated the 2nd youth fest- Xitij ’12 and the glimpse as well as summary of this “youth-dream-talent-competition” travel – youth festival are as follows...
